Gateway Mall: Home of sports champs

APART from being the premiere shopping destination right in the heart of the metro, Gateway Mall proves that it is home to sports champs as well.

As the only one directly connected to the mecca of sports and entertainment, the Araneta Coliseum, Gateway becomes the preferred venue for sporting highlights.

The mall recently played host to the newest superstars of the NBA, Andre Iguodala of the Philadelphia 76ers and New York Knicks power forward Channing Frye together with the Silver Spurs dancers were given a welcome dinner as they trooped over to the Araneta Center for the NBA Madness Tour, the highlight of which is the Celebrity Jam at the Big Dome—an event that put together the visiting NBA players and our local stars in an exhibition game with performances from the country's top bands.

Meanwhile, a week-long exhibit was held recently by the Philippine Touring Car Championship at the mall's activity area. The largest Philippine touring car grid in the history of motor sports with 27 car teams in its roster, the PTCC chose Gateway Mall as the venue for its first car showcase in 2006 because of its proximity in location to race car enthusiasts. The organization also wants to make known to the public that race car driving is more than a mere hobby but a lifestyle. Present at the opening of the exhibit are today's racing greats like Pacho Blanco, Kookie Ramirez and Pocholo Ramirez, who gave out short talks about the racing circuit today and were available for autograph signing.

Truly, Gateway Mall proves that it's got a little bit of everything not only for the discriminating shopper of every taste and mood but also for the sports aficionado. Visit Gateway at the Araneta Center, your favorite place for shopping, dining, and fun—and you'll find loads of sports surprises waiting to be enjoyed as well.
